

Visualizations of Pollution Levels and Renewable Energy Use

This collection of visualizations explores the intersection of pollution levels and renewable energy adoption in the World. Each image provides insights into the effectiveness of renewable energy policies and their relationship with carbon emissions.

